After many seasons of sportiness and coziness, fall/winter 2023/24 is all about a new turn to elegance. High-quality fabrics, sensual cuts, minimalist silhouettes and muted colors meet an exciting glamour factor of metallics, jewelry and sequins. It may glitter and sparkle - but nicely discreet, please. Perfectly tailored blazers in the finest wool qualities, figure-hugging dresses in cashmere and shirt blouses in silk - timeless essentials with attitude and sophistication now define the look. Leather is the material of the moment - for long coats, loose pants and of course bags and accessories. It looks most stylish in super-sleek black or grey nappa or in shiny patent looks. Black is back - and the look is monochrome black from head to toe.

Accessories focus on minimalism and timelessness. This is particularly evident in bags, with classic shapes, angular shoppers and small-format shoulder bags. Purist shapes and cuts often surprise with fine, refined details such as artfully woven handles. The variety of materials ranges from ultra-soft goatskins to lacquer and vinyl. Crocodile embossing and embossings are reminiscent of modernly interpreted vintage styles and are implemented on clean envelope bags and straight-lined shoppers in winter darks.

In addition to soft, slouchy bag shapes made of soft nappa, sturdy bags such as box bags, clutches and caskets come into play. Geometry provides inspiration for a new design language. In addition to landscape-format shoulder bags for everyday use, the party bag is a must-have. Heart- and spherical-shaped styles offer space for the night's essentials. Meanwhile, edgy XXL shoppers fit what feels like half your life.

It may shine and shimmer again in the fall/winter 23/24. Sequins, metallic leather and glitter set bags effectively in scene. New is the surprising break between glam and softness. Metallic plates in gold and silver and all-over sequins now adorn slouchy bags and soft clutches. Clasps, chains and rivets look like forged pieces of jewelry on black leather.
